Making a Difference for California

Upcoming Vertebrate Pest Webinar

The following message is from Roger Baldwin, a U.C. Wildlife specialist:

Greetings! Every two years, the Vertebrate Pest Council hosts a series of seminars providing updates and information on managing vertebrate pests. It is time for our next cycle! Due to the pandemic, this year the seminars will be virtual. We will be hosting three 2-hour sessions spread across three days. Each day will have a different theme:

Day 1 (March 30): Field rodents

Day 2 (March 31): Updates and information on the use of rodenticides

Day 3 (April 1): Managing commensal rodents

These are unique seminars in that there generally is not any other place where you can get continuing education credits exclusively for vertebrate species. We have experts from around the state lined up to provide these seminars. The link for the website with all the details can be found
