Tehama County 4-H In the Clover News

Cinnamon Rolls - Corning 4-H was up at 4am on Saturday to participate in our annual Cinnamon Roll Fundraiser. These kids made over 400 packages of cinnamon rolls, placing them in pans, baking, icing, then transferring to a box for delivery. Always amazing day to watch these kids work together to get it done.

Bowman 4H had our annual tree cutting and sales on December 4th & 5th. Our club has been conducting this fundraiser for about 37 years. Our longtime club leader for about 40 years, Beulah Noland, started the original tree sale. The money we raise supports our club for the year and helps pay for members who want to attend 4H camp in July. This year was our most successful sale in our history! Our Cottonwood community is always so supportive. We would like to say thank you to all the members and parents that cut and/or sold trees. What a great way to work together and make new friends. The help was amazing in addition to having the largest group ever involved and was very much appreciated. The sale wouldn't have been so successful without the Amen family at Shasta Farm & Equipment in Cottonwood. We were so thankful for the use of their facility and also for their help in selling the remainder of our trees the week after our sale!

Great job Manton 4-H and thank you for hosting this event!

Members of the Flournoy Paskenta 4H Club gathered together this past weekend and created a magical Christmas community event for Corning residents. They lit up the local park with smiles and laughter by providing Santa Photos to the families in our community. Children and families visited with Santa and had their family pictures taken. It was a very successful event and we can't wait until next year.

Club Reports

Bowman Club Report...by Royce Rulon

Bowman 4-H held their annual Christmas tree sales on December 4, 2021. Bowman cut over 200 trees and would like to thank the community for their support. On December 7, 2021 Bowman had their meeting and officer installation, one of the county ambassadors came and installed all of the officers into the club. At the meeting we talked about upcoming favorite foods day, life skills day, fun night, and fair requirements. Old business we talked about was awards night, and how we achieved our clubs goals. Our club ended the meeting by decorating a Christmas tree that we'll be giving away to a family in need for community service this month.

Antelope Club Report...by Ellie Eggleston, Reporter

During Antelopes third 4-H meeting we did "Installation of Officers", that is when each officer gets appointed to there job for the club. Our club has four committees. Gift Wrapping Committee, Life Skills Judging Day Poster Committee, Fun Night Committee, and a T-Shirt committee. The club passed out two awards, we got our pins and stripes, and there is a community service project in January. This is everything that happened in Antelopes third 4-H meeting.

Manton 4-H Club Report...by Colton Hall, President

Manton 4H hosted the annual 4H awards night at the Manton School Gym on December 5th. There was moderate attendance. In preparation for the event our group made salt dough ornaments in the shape of 4H animals. The ornaments were then baked, hand painted and used to decorate the 3 Christmas trees and tables at the Ceremony. Upon conclusion the ornaments were given to 4H Members to take home and add to their own trees.

Lassen Colony Club Report...by Katey Kohler, Reporter

Lassen Colony had their annual club Christmas party on December 13th immediately following the December club meeting. This year there was a book exchange and each officer led a project on making an ornament. Ornaments such as cutting snowflakes out of paper or making a candy cane out of chenille stems were completed. These ornaments then went on a Christmas tree that will later be donated to a family who can enjoy it for the holiday season.

Traditional market-animal projects positively influence 4-H enrollment

by Josh Davy, Larry Forero, Nathan Caeton and Allison Gross

The 4-H Youth Development Program (4-H) teaches a host of lifelong skills, but to build these skills enrollment is necessary. Outwardly, much of 4-H has been associated with market-animal projects, but the effect of these projects on enrollment is not known. To find out how market animal projects influence enrollment we analyzed seven years of enrollment data (2007-2015) from 27 Northern California counties focusing on beef, sheep and swine projects.

The question we were interested in answering is:

Could encouraging market-animal projects in Northern California increase overall 4-H enrollment at greater than a 1:1 rate (i.e., adding one market-animal project could increase enrollment by more than one youth participant).

County enrollment data over seven years was used to determine how participation in beef, swine and sheep projects affected enrollment in Northern California. We included the three livestock species, year, region and population density to determine if, for each factor, a significant causal relationship with total enrollment existed. This approach allows the influences of all the factors to be considered and results in a specific interpretation of each individual factor's contribution to enrollment, independent of the contributions of the others. Because of this, the model can determine how many new 4-H memberships are produced by a new market-animal project — regardless of year, location or population density. This article will only discuss the analysis associated with market animal projects.

This analysis indicates that the primary hypothesis of this research — that swine, beef and sheep projects are important to 4-H enrollment — is true. It demonstrated that market-animal projects produce significant, positive effects on enrollment. Each beef project contributed nearly four new members to county enrollment; a single sheep project yielded just over two new members; and two new swine projects produced a single new enrollment (Table 1).

Continued....

TABLE 1 Estimated influence of the occurrence of a single additional market-animal project on total 4-H enrollment

Parameter	Single Market Animal Enrollment	Estimated increase in enrollment for each market project
Market beef cattle	1	3.98
Market sheep	1	2.3
Market swine	1	0.62

*This is in addition to the youth enrolled in the market animal project

While the enrollment multiplier (1.62) associated with swine projects may seem modest, the number of these projects in a given county program is relatively large. For every 200 market swine projects the model predicts an additional 100 enrollments can be expected. This represents a large proportion of the county membership.

The authors speculate that a member enrolling in 4-H creates awareness among siblings, peers and friends about the opportunities that 4-H offers. For example, if a youth is interested in raising a market animal, the youth's parents may reason that, since they will be taking one child to community club meetings, they might as well involve siblings because 4-H could offer projects that also appeal to them.

The results of this research show that market-animal projects positively increase enrollment in a large way. Through participation in these projects, youth are exposed to the other constructive aspects of the youth development program. Useful future research could focus on barriers that prevent youth participation in market-animal projects. Overcoming these barriers could result in an increase in participation in 4-H. Lessons learned from market-animal projects, coupled with the structure of the traditional community club system, produce encouraging outcomes well documented among 4-H alumni.

4-H Updates

Recycled Whites Available– NO CHARGE

The UCCE Office has a supply of slightly used white shirts and pants available and NO CHARGE for any 4-H member. Call for an appointment to come by our office if you are in need of white shirts or pants. The official guidelines for the 4-H uniform can be found on the California 4-H Website using this link: http://4h.ucanr.edu/Resources/Member_Resources/Uniform/

If your child has outgrown their uniform, consider recycling to help other 4-H families out, by dropping them by the 4-H Office.

California Women for Agriculture-North Valley Chapter 2022 Junior Livestock Loan Program

The Junior Livestock Loan Program was adopted in 2004 by the North Valley CWA, (California Women for Agriculture) chapter. Its purpose is to make it easier for students to purchase an animal to sell at the Tehama County Fair and to learn budgeting and responsibility. All of us in the CWA chapter feel that raising and selling of an animal through 4-H or FFA is an invaluable opportunity to learn responsibility and gain business knowledge.

If you have any questions, you can contact Marissa Guerra from Golden State Farm Credit at 805-712-8816 (call or text).

If you are interested, please call the 4-H office (530-527-3101) and speak with Jessica.

Countywide Projects

4-H Projects typically begin at the club level however, if there are no volunteers leading such projects, the option to open a popular project to the county level allows others to interact and meet members from other clubs who have similar interests. Countywide 4-H projects are available to any active Tehama County 4-H member. These projects have their own schedules and meeting dates and it is up to the member to keep informed as they do not meet at monthly club meetings. Countywide 4-H projects must be approved annually by our county 4-H Program Educator upon completion of a Countywide Project Info Sheet on file with the UCCE Tehama County 4-H Office. Interested in starting or continuing a Countywide 4-H Project? Request a Countywide Project Info Sheet by emailing ecparadis@ucanr.edu.
